Instructions: For your course, fill out the table below. List the elements of your course in the rows of column A at whatever level of specificity best suits your course. For example, you could focus on high-level elements (e.g., homeworks, exams, projects) or focus at a more granular level with specific lectures, assignments, or exams.

Once you've listed out the course elements, put an "x" in the columns that correspond to the relevant values that the element addresses (e.g., group projects might naturally address the values of application, communication, teamwork, and tools).
